DAC International's COO and Co-Founder Terry Armstrong Retiring

Austin, TX, February 23rd, 2010 — DAC International of Greenwich AeroGroup announced today the retirement of COO and Co-Founder Terry Armstrong.

Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Michael Crouch founded DAC International in 1981 in Austin, Texas. Mr. Armstrong served as COO through his tenure and was also responsible for corporate and general aviation sales and product development worldwide. He will continue in an advisory capacity for Corporate Aviation products.

"After more than 39 years of full time service in aviation, it's time for me to move to a new chapter in my life," Armstrong said. "I'm looking forward to continue working as an advisor with my friends at DAC and a greater emphasis on community and leisure activities" he added.

"I want to thank Terry for his terrific contribution over the past 29 years" said Michael Crouch, President of DAC International. "His influence was monumental in establishing the strong industry alliances and complement of products we have built over the years and continue growing at DAC to serve our customers" he added.

Mr. Michael Crouch will continue in his leadership role as President of DAC International. The senior management team now includes Francisco Hernandez, VP of Sales for all product lines, Rick Horn, VP Engineering & Manufacturing and Lisa Finley, VP of Finance.
